Charles Beals

To you, CHARLES BEALS, we, the students of George Fox College, dedicate the 1959 L'Ami. Vesta Kimble, in her poem "Just To Know" expresses the feeling we have for you.

I've always had a feeling—
That God sent you my way.
He knew that I would need your help,
To walk along life's way.

You're steady—true and loyal,
An anchor in life's sea.
And when my ship gets tossing—
You always stand by me.

Just your presence helps me,
To know that you're around.
I'm honored with your friendship,
Few friends like you I've found.

You're always there to help me,
When the road of life gets rough.
I've found out through the years—
You're a friend—that I can trust.

Each time that I have needed you,
You've given your advice.
What you have said has made me stop—
Listen—and think twice.

You have wisdom—your decisions
Seem always right and just.
It makes us all so happy
To have friends—who care for us.

In Memory

ROBERT ASTLEFORD—Bob, a sophomore, will be sorely missed on the campus of George Fox College. He had a deep loyalty to the church and school. On December 24, 1958, Bob, along with his cousin, drowned while duck hunting on Netarts Bay.

College life is characterized by constant change, by academic and social climate, by the pendulum of popular opinion. Progress, or retrogression, are accomplished within the framework of social acceptance. This year at George Fox is no exception.

For many years, the faculty and the serious leaders of the student body have been concerned that the highest acceptance would stem from intellectual accomplishment and spiritual integrity, rather than social or popular criteria alone. Why should promising students dissipate their energies upon secondary activities? Why should a date mean more than a GPA of 4.00?

The positions into which we have negotiated over a period of years — in curriculum building, in eligibility, in honors, in co-curricular activities, in student government, even in grading — all add to positions where greater satisfactions are coming to more students because of a feeling of accomplishment. It is being proved within the student body that, even though the pursuit of an education may at times be laborious and fatiguing, the end result is one of well-being and personal pride. More students were on the honor roll at one time than for many years.

May I congratulate the student body for the records you are making. May you look back upon this year as your best thus far. Let it be your understanding, too, that you are not only helping yourselves to a more adequate education, but you are establishing a higher norm at George Fox, and for the cause of Christian and Quaker education.

Dean Williams

When a painter prepares to paint, he sees before him an easel and canvas, brushes and paint, but in his mind is the picture which the skillful blending of the pigments of color artfully spread on the canvas will reveal to others.

As students come to college, professors see in them and in the experiences they are to have the potential for a careful blending which shall produce the beautiful character of a truly educated person. The goal of the college is not to teach young people what they do not know, but to teach them to behave as they do not behave. All of the experiences of college life are essential if the knowledge gained is to be converted into wisdom.

Acquirement of facts may give one knowledge. But knowledge is like food; it must be assimilated to become useful. Experience gained from books and lectures is knowledge. The use of that knowledge in actual experience develops wisdom. Knowledge converted into wisdom is that which enables one to become not as a reservoir, but as a fountain. The reservoir takes in and retains and allows the contents to become stagnant; the fountain has an unending source of supply and gives out with a constantly fresh flowing stream.

The broad variety of activities on the George Fox College campus is for the purpose of helping students to gain knowledge and to have opportunity to convert that knowledge into wisdom that they may develop beautiful characters and become as fountains prepared and capable of giving of themselves for others.

This year the Quakers scheduled the first football season with varsity competition against small colleges in the school's history. Although the team didn't make many points on the scoreboard, they were very high in team spirit.

The season's high point was the game on the Newberg High School football field where the Quakers played against Columbia Basin Junior College from Washington. The Hawks of Columbia Basin were within the Quakers own twenty-yard line eleven times before they scored the only touchdown of the game in the closing ninety seconds of play.

John Johnson who played fullback was elected by the team as the most valuable player for the season.

The following write-up appeared in the Olympic Junior College Homecoming program which pretty well describes what another school says about our spirit and purpose of our athletic program and the school.

"LITTLE CHIEF BIG SPIRIT"

One hears about schools who have lost their school spirit, but to me George Fox sounds like a school with more than they can handle. This small college, whose colors are blue and gold and whose mascot is a Teddy Bear, has a total enrollment of 158. Yes, I said a total enrollment of 158 students! The ratio of boys to girls is about even.

Now, one may ask, 'Why is this so unusual?' Because George Fox has a complete athletic program despite its size.

Here at O. C. participants in athletics are chosen from approximately 600 male students. Can one imagine picking a football, basketball, and baseball team out of approximately 79 men? This of course, is not including all of the other inter-collegiate sports that are played each year.

George Fox College, we of Olympic College, 'Pat You On The Back' for your courage to keep your spirit even though you may be a small school and defeated often. Don't ever give up and never forget the objectives you have set for yourselves, 'To develop the capabilities of students in the framework of Christ-centered teaching which believes that in Him, through Him, and unto Him, all things exist.'

Basketball

The George Fox basketball team had a very successful season. The Quakers trounced over the Alumni in the opening game of the year, lost three games in Idaho, one at Oregon College of Education at Monmouth, and the opening league game against Oregon Dental at Portland. After this beginning the season didn't look too bright. Then, the squad won three consecutive games against Oregon Medical, Multnomah Bible, and the Portland Beavers at the Cleveland High gym in Portland. The Beaver team was composed of old members of the Portland Beaver baseball squad. The GFC club then lost three in a row to Lower Columbia Junior College of Longview, Washington, O.C.E. again, and Multnomah Junior College. Then it happened, the team became alive with spirit and zip and won ten consecutive games, one of the longest string of victories in the school's history. The blue and gold beat Reed Central Oregon College twice, Multnomah Bible, Cascade, Concordia, Central Oregon College two more times, Oregon Dental, and Oregon Medical. However, the squad had a relapse losing to Reed by one point, Multnomah Junior College by two points, nosing out a win over Northwest Christian College of Eugene by two points, and losing to Concordia by one point in overtime to finish out the regular season with fifteen wins and eleven losses. This gave the Quakers seven wins and five losses in the metropolitan league for third place.

In the Second Annual George Fox College Invitational Tournament the Quakers were host to seven teams. The tournament was played in two gyms. In the first round Concordia beat Multnomah Bible 64-59 at the Cascade gym. Also at Cascade, Northwest Christian College of Eugene was defeated by Multnomah Junior College 60-76. At the Hester Memorial gym Western Baptist won easily over Reed 76-61, and George Fox defeated Columbia Christian College of Portland 73-38. In the consolation bracket at Cascade, Multnomah Bible squeaked by NW Christian College 53-51 and Columbia Christian lost a close one to Reed 44-50. In the championship bracket at George Fox, Multnomah Junior College whipped Concordia 89-66 and the blue and gold rolled over Western Baptist 73-56. The last night of the tournament at George Fox saw Multnomah Bible beat Reed for fourth place and Concordia crushing Western Baptist 97-67 for third place. The Quakers last game was the best one of the season. The GFC squad had lost two league games to Multnomah Junior College each by the narrow margin of one field goal. The Quakers hit almost every time they shot while the Warriors could not break through the GFC defense. Halfway through the first half saw the blue and gold holding a narrow lead of 16-12. At half-time the GFC enjoyed a 33-21 margin. Halfway through the second half the Quakers began to weaken their defense and saw their lead whittled down to 44-41. The spectators weren't sure if the team would win or not with ten minutes left in the game. Heinrich fouled out, and with about three minutes left in the game Crow made his fifth foul. But the Quakers went on to win 63-57 and first place in the tournament.

About half the squad participated in varsity competition sometime during the season. Bob Brauckmiller coached the first semester and then he had to drop out of school to go to work. Bob Willcuts took over for the rest of the season. John Johnson was high point man for the squad with 154 points.

Girls' Basketball

The Quakerettes had a very successful basketball season. Losing only the first game, the girls won the rest of the season. The high scorers for the season were Nadine Brood, captain Alfreda Pinther, Shirlene Swisher, Jo Wolford, and Barbara Morse. Alfreda was chosen as the outstanding player of the season. This year the Quakerettes were coached by Mrs. Magee with Alfreda as assistant.

The girls' volleyball team got off to a good start by winning their opening game against O.C.E. The girls won the first and third games out of a set of three games each by a score of 9—7. Also they played O.C.E. again, Linfield once, and Hillcrest once. The team beat Hillcrest in the second and fourth games, but Hillcrest won the first, third, and fifth games in a three out of a set of five games. Captain of the team, Nadine Brood, was chosen as the most outstanding player.

Track

In track, Lary Smith was the lone track man. He represented the school in two track meets. He placed third in the javelin at the Willamette relays with a toss of around 190'. Also, he placed second in a triangular meet against O.C.E. and Linfield.

Baseball

The 1959 baseball season was a dismal one. With only seven players showing up for practice, since the other members of the team had jobs that made them come late to practice, the Quakers didn't get to have many practices together. Even so, the squad played against Concordia and Reed right down to the wire, losing by only one run in the ninth inning.

Paul Morse was chosen as the outstanding player of the baseball season. He played second base and did some pitching at the mound.

Coach

CARL CARPENTER
Head Coach and Athletic Director

Mr Carpenter has done an excellent job this year despite the handicap of working with the small number of fellows who came out for the team. Also, coach Carpenter had the Quakers playing against varsity competition of other small schools in football and an additional four more teams than last year representing their schools in the basketball tournament. Even though the football and basketball seasons didn't give the Quakers any wins, the basketball season was very successful. But Mr. Carpenter has stressed that it is not always winning that counts, but how the fellows play the game. It is much better to lose a game than to graduate from school without a higher power from above to help each fellow to get along with his fellowmen, and to play and win the game of life.
